GOOD LIVING IN GERMANY, SAYS VET

R. S. MESSECAR BACK FROM OVER SEAS TELLS OF LIFE O FHUNS

CUSTOMS LIKE IN U. S.

"France Hit Hardest by the War," He Says; Was on the Argonne Front When War Ended.

R. S. Mossecar, a grandson of E. F. Teaney of this city, and a former waggoner in the Headquarters Field Hospital Section of the Sixth Sanitary train, told a few of his experiences while over in France and Germany today.

Young Mossecar saw considerable service both on the firing line in the Alsace and Argonne sectors and with the American Army of Occupation in Germany, and it was the latter place of his "soldiering" that he appeared to have the most interest in.

"It was great stuff over in Germany and we had the time of our lives." he said,

The German people are not as ahr up and starved as the reports which reach this country would indicate, and in Luxemburg region where I was stationed there was hardly any evidence of the war. The people there are almost like those in United States, and act and dress a great deal more like Americans than the French.

They never spoke of the war, and although some of them showed that they were strong for the Kaiser and expected him to be their ruler again, they were pretty careful about talking about it when the "doughboys" were around.

Mossecar said that the Germans held dances and entertainment for the men who were only a short time before in deadly combat with their troops, and he emphasized the fact that the German frauleins "fell" for the stalwart American soldiers as hard as either the French or English girls.

"Among the lower classes" said Mossecar "there is a shortage of food and natural poverty just like in the United States but the people of the medium and higher classes seem prosperous and well fed.

Mossecar, entered the service on May 8, 1917, and after being shifted about from various camps in this country, went across to Scotland on July 5, 1918. He went from Scotland to the Lorraine front and was on the Argonne front at the time the armistice was signed.

"France is the country that has suffered by the war most of all," he said—"and many of these reports of starvation in Germany are utterly false."

POLAND-CHINA DIRECTORS MEET

BOARD IN REGULAR SEMI-ANNUAL SESSION AT LOCAL HEADQUARTERS

MAKING RAPID PROGRESS

Secretary Garrett's Report Shows Business of Association in Excellent Condition; Plan for Jan. Meet.

The regular semi-annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Standard Poland China Record Association was in session today at the headquarters of the association in this city.

S. McKalvie of Fairfield, Nebr., T. J. Dawe of Hiawatha, Kan.; N. J. Staples, of Burlington Junction; James Kennish of Mound City, and W. O. Garrett of this city, comprise the board which met today.

The progress which the Poland China Association has made during the past year was illustrated by the report brought before the directors meeting by Secretary Frank Garrett. The total assets of the association for the period of Dec. 22, 1918 to June 22, 1919 show $40,258.14 against $27,599.47 for the same period last year. The receipts of the association also show an encouraging growth, $23,709.02 being received for the six months period ending June 22, 1919, against a total of $20,302.61 received for the similar period last year.

Little outside of the regular current business such as the checking up of reports and the allowing of bills, was taken up at the meeting today, and it is expected that the work of the directors will be completed by tonight.

Preliminary plans for the annual convention of the association which is to be held here next January were discussed today, and tentative plans were laid for a jubilee celebration to mark the growth and prosperity of the association were laid. It is expected that in the neighborhood of 200 prominent stockmen, breeders of the Poland-China strain, will attend the meeting and banquet.

GERMANY PREPARES TO PAY WAR DEBT

DR. ERZBERGER PRESENTS PLAN TO MEET INDEMNITIES

FIGHT THE KAISER TRIAL

Speaker Urges His Countrymen to Get to Work and Forget Revenge; Gov't to Appropriate Large Fortunes.

Weimar, July 7, via Berlin, July 9—The initial step toward the raising of the great war indemnity which has been imposed on Germany to the Allies, was taken here this afternoon when Dr. Erzberger, vice chancellor and old minister of finance, introduced ten new revenue bills, designed to increase the income of the republic by nine hundred per cent. Erzberger introduced the bills at the conclusion of a speech in which he outlined the program which the new republic must adhere to if it is to fulfill its obligations, and at the same time escape bankruptcy. He urged all the Germans to cease to talk of revenge on Germany's enemies and to get to work. He was loudly applauded when he concluded.

The most revolutionary step in the government's financial program as announced by Erzberger was a flat statement that it is necessary for the property classes to surrender their superflous riches..

A bill for the appropriation of large fortunes by the government was designed to carry out this part of the program.

The German national parley will propose in the resolution that before the National Assembly ratifies the peace treaty, it will make a reservation that it will not surrender the ex-kaiser for a trial before an international court.

President Opens His Heart In First Homecoming Speech

New York, July 9.—The full text of President Wilson's speech at Carnegie Hall late yesterday afternoon follows:

"Fellow Countrymen: I am not going to try this afternoon to make you a real speech. I am a bit alarmed to find how many speeches I have in my system undelivered, but they are all speeches that come from the mind and I want to say to you this afternoon only a few words from the heart.

"You have made me deeply happy by the generous welcome you have extended to me but I do not believe that the welcome you extend to me is half as great as that which I extend to you. Why, Jerseyman though I am, this is the first time I ever thought that Hoboken was beautiful.

"I have, really, though I have tried on the other side of the water to conceal it, been the most homesick man in the American Expeditionary Force, and it is with feelings that it would be vain for me to try to express that I find myself in this beloved country again. I do not say that because I lack in admiration of other countries.

"There have been many things that softened my homesickness. One of the chief things that softened it was the very generous welcome that they extended to me as your representative on the other side of the water. And it was still more softened by the pride that I had in discovering that America had at last convinced the world of her true character.

"I was welcome because they had seen with their own eyes what America had done for the world. They had deemed her selfish. They had deemed her devoted to material interests. And they saw her boys come across the water with a vision even more beautiful than that which they conceived when they had entertained dreams of liberty and peace.

"And then I had the added pride of finding out by personal observation the kind of men we had sent over. I had crossed the seas with the kind of men who had taken them over, without whom they could not have got to Europe, and then when I got there I saw that army of men, that army of clean men, that army of men devoted to the high interests of humanity, that army that one was glad to point out and say —'These are my fellow countrymen.'

"It softens the homesickness a good deal to have so much of home along with you, and these boys were constantly reminding me of home. They did not walk the streets like anybody else. I do not mean that they walked the streets self-assertively. They did not. They walked the streets as if they knew that they belonged wherever free men lived, that they were welcome in the great republic of France, and were comrades with the other armies that had helped to win the great battle and to show the great sacrifice. Because it is a wonderful thing for this nation, hitherto isolated from the large affairs of the world, to win not only the universal confidence of the people of the world, but their universal affections.

"And that, and nothing less than that, is what has happened. Wherever it was suggested that troops should be sent and it was desired that troops of occupation should excite no prejudice, no uneasiness on the part of those to whom they were sent, the men who represented the other nations came to me and asked me to send American soldiers. They not only implied, but they said, that the presence of American soldiers would be known not to mean anything except friendly protection and assistance. Do you wonder that it made our hearts swell with pride to realize these things?

"But while these things in some degree softened my homesickness, they made me all the more eager to get home, where the rest of the folks live; to get home where the great dynamo of national energy was situated, to get home where the great purposes of national action were formed and to be allowed to take part in the counsels and in the actions which were formed and to be taken by this great Nation which from first to last has followed the vision of the men who set it up and created it.

"We have had our eyes very close upon our tasks at times, but whenever we lifted them, as we were accustomed to lift them to a distant horizon, we were aware that all the people of the earth had turned their faces toward us as those who were the friends of freedom and of right, and whenever we thought of national policy and of its relation upon the affairs of the world, we knew we were under bonds to do the large thing and the right thing.

"It is a privilege, therefore, beyond all computation, for a man, whether in a great or small capacity, to take part in the counsels and in the resolutions of a people like this. I am afraid some people, some persons, do not understand that vision. They do not see it. They have looked too much upon the ground. They have thought too much of the interests that were near them, and they have not listened to the voices of their neighbors.

"I have never had a moment's doubt as to where the heart and purpose of this people lay. When any one on the other side of the water had raised the question, 'Will America come in and help?' I have said, 'Of course, America will come in and help.' She can not do anything else. She will not disappoint any high hope that has been formed of her. Least of all, will she, in this day of new born liberty all over the world, fail to extend her hand of support and assistance to those who have been made free.

"I wonder if at this distance you have got any conception of the tragic intensity of the feeling of those peoples in Europe who have just had yokes thrown off them. Have you reckoned up in your mind how many peoples, how many nations, were held unwillingly under the yoke of Austro-Hungarian empire, under the yoke of Turkey, under the yoke of Germany?

"These yokes have been thrown off. These peoples breathe the air and look around to see a new day dawn about them, and whenever they think of what is going to fill that day with action they think first of us. They think first of the friends who throughout the long years have spoken for them, who were privileged to declare that they came into the war to release them, who said that they would not make peace upon any other terms than their liberty, and they have known that America's presence in the war and in the conference was the guarantee of the result.

The governor has spoken of a great task ended. Yes, the formulation of the peace is ended, but it creates only a new task just begun. I believe that if you will study the peace, you will see that it is a just peace and a peace which, if it can be preserved, will save the world from unnecessary bloodshed.

'And now the great task is to preserve it. I have come back with my heart full of enthusiasm for throwing everything that I can, by way of influence or action, in with you to see that the peace is preserved, that when the long reckoning comes, men may look back upon this generation of America and say, "They were true to the vision which they saw at their birth."

HOUSE TOOK RAP AT WOMEN.

Criticized for Their Galluses... They Urged Women to "Stretch" Dresses.

Jefferson City, July 9.—In the afternoon session of the house Monday that body took a pretty hard fall out of the suffragettes who came here last week to push the federal equal suffrage amendment through the legislature, and succeeded with great ease in doing so. In a Sunday story concerning the ratification of the federal suffrage amendment, a woman reporter for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat spoke of the members of the house who went about in their shirt sleeves, some of them wearing galluses and some of them none and in comparing them with the neatly dressed senators drew a comparison that roiled the membership of the house.

Representative Byrne of St. Joseph introduced a resolution in retort, which the house adopted by a vote of 86 to 1. The resolution, after reciting the woes of the house members and declaring that they wore clothes adapted to the weather and which were for the purpose of concealing and not revealing their bodies, etc., concluded with the following:

Whereas, certain women on said occasion wore a sort of gauze that covered only a part of their bodies and answered only as a camouflage, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the 50th general assembly in extraordinary session that we advise these reformers that charity and reform should begin at home and suggest to them to burn their corsets, knock the heels off their slippers and get a gauze stretcher and stretch their clothing so it will cover all of their bodies.

NEBRASKANS FORM NEW UNION.

Farmers Organization Plans to Sell 3 Million Dollars Worth of Stock.

From the Nebraska Journal.

Omaha—The Farmers' Union State Exchange, authorized to issue 3 million dollars worth of stock, was incorporated the other day at a meeting of several hundred farmers, members of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative State Union, controlled by members of the new organization.

The union represents about four thousand farmers and stock breeders of Nebraska and was organized five years ago as a co-operative exchange. The change of organization was made to widen the scope of the business. In place of paying dues as under the old form of organization, stock guaranteed to pay 8 per cent dividends annually has been issued. About $450,000 worth of stock was bought by the delegates to the meeting.

The headquarters of the union will be in Omaha. Its purpose is stated to be "to buy, sell and trade in seeds, groceries, shoes and implements, of all kinds." By a special motion the proposed bylaws were amended so as not to include grain and livestock.

Stock in the new company will be limited to members of the former union, with a restriction of forty shares to a member.

Hanus Says Tanlac Relieves His Rheumatism And He Now Feels Fine.

"Tanlac sure relieved me of my troubles and I gained fifteen pounds after I began taking it," said J. J. Hanus, a prominent resident of Ennis, Texas, living at 704 East Waco Street, that city.

"For years," he continued, "I had been going down hill and getting worse every day, in spite of all the medicines and treatments I took. Then I began to have terrible attacks of sciatic rheumatism, which kept me in bed for as long as five weeks at a time. I became very nervous and went to a well-known health resort, hoping to get relief, but that did me no good either.

"At last I was induced by what I had read and heard about Tanlac to give it a trial, and I am positively amazed at the change it has made in me. Why, I am entirely free of rheumatism and simply feel fine. All my troubles are gone and I am certainly delighted with the way Tanlac has fixed me up and am glad to recommend it to my friends."

"Tanlac is sold in Maryville by Koch Pharmacy, in Conception Junction by A. M. Colly, in Pickering by H. M. Lincoln, in Burlington Junction by Carter Pharmacy, in Barnard by Bear Drug Co., in Elmo by King Drug Co., in Clearmont by Dr. W. H. Wiley, in Ravenwood by C. A. Shunk, in Arkoe by Rufus R. Had Figured It Out.

At a recent meeting of the Lowell centenary in Cambridge, Professor William R. Thayer told this one:

"At the time Cornell University was founded, there was bitter rivarly between Ithaca and Ovid as to which would secure the college. Finally Ithaca won out and later, as a sop to Ovid's injured feelings, she was given an insane asylum.

"For a time every one was satisfied but at length the good people of Ovid began to wonder if, after all, they still did not have the worst of it.

"Finally, at a mass meeting one old gentlemen voiced the growing feeling in the community when he said:

"'I been figgering this thing out and I've decided that one college is as good as at least two insane asylums.'"

IF YOU DRIVE A HORSE YOU SHOULD READ THIS

A Few Hot Weather Rules Compiled for the Comfort of the Work Horse.

The following hot weather rules for the care and treatment of work horses during the summer have been prepared by the Boston Work Horse Relief Association. Aside from a humanitarian standpoint, their observance will have its reward in better work by the animals.

Load lightly and drive slowly.

Stop in the shade if possible.

Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, water in small quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still. Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his hay.

When he comes in after work, sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose and mouth and the dock. Wash his feet but not his legs.

If the thermometer is 75 degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a damp sponge, using vinegar water if possible. Do not wash the horse at night.

Saturday night, give a bran mash, lukewarm; and add a tablespoonful of saltpetre.

Do not use a horse hat, unless it is a canopy-top hat. The ordinary bell-shaped hat does more harm than good.

A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry it is worse than nothing.

If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him two ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre, in a pint of water; or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.

If the horse is off his feed, try him with two quarts of oats mixed with bran, and a little water; add a little salt or sugar. Or give oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.

Watch your horse. If he stops sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or if he stands with his legs braced sideways, he is in danger of a heat or sun stroke and needs attention at once.

If it is so hot that the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside with bedding under him. Unless he cools off during the night, he can not well stand the next day's heat.

GOOD LIVING IN GERMANY, SAYS VET

R. S. MESSECAR BACK FROM OVER SEAS TELLS OF LIFE O FHUNS

CUSTOMS LIKE IN U. S.

"France Hit Hardest by the War," He Says; Was on the Argonne Front When War Ended.

R. S. Mossecar, a grandson of E. F. Teaney of this city, and a former waggoner in the Headquarters Field Hospital Section of the Sixth Sanitary train, told a few of his experiences while over in France and Germany today.

Young Mossecar saw considerable service both on the firing line in the Alsace and Argonne sectors and with the American Army of Occupation in Germany, and it was the latter place of his "soldiering" that he appeared to have the most interest in.

"It was great stuff over in Germany and we had the time of our lives," he said,

The German people are not as ahr up and starved as the reports which reach this country would indicate, and in Luxemburg region where I was stationed there was hardly any evidence of the war. The people there are almost like those in United States, and act and dress a great deal more like Americans than the French.

They never spoke of the war, and although some of them showed that they were strong for the Kaiser and expected him to be their ruler again, they were pretty careful about talking about it when the "doughboys'! were around.

Mossecar said that the Germans held dances and entertainment for the men who were only a short time before in deadly combat with their troops, and he emphasized the fact that the German frauleins "fell' for the stalwart American soldiers as hard as either the French or English girls.

"Among the lower classes" said Mossecar "there is a shortage of food and natural poverty just like in the United States but the people of the medium and higher classes seem prosperous and well fed.

Mossecar, entered the service on May 8, 1917, and after being shifted about from various camps in this country, went across to Scotland on July 5, 1918. He went from Scotland to the Lorraine front and was on the Argonne front at the time the armistice was signed.

"France is the country that has suffered by the war most of all," he said "and many of these reports of starvation in Germany are utterly false."

GERMANY PREPARES TO PAY WAR DEBT

DR. ERZBERGER PRESENTS PLAN TO MEET INDEMNITIES

FIGHT THE KAISER TRIAL

Speaker Urges His Countrymen to Get to Work and Forget Revenge; Gov't to Appropriate Large Fortunes.

Weimar, July 7, via Berlin, July 9—The initial step toward the raising of the great war indemnity which has been imposed on Germany to the Allies, was taken here this afternoon when Dr. Erzberger, vice chancellor and old minister of finance, introduced ten new revenue bills, designed to increase the income of the republic by nine hundred per cent. Erzberger introduced the bills at the conclusion of a speech in which he outlined the program which the new republic must adhere to if it is to fulfill its obligations, and at the same time escape bankruptcy. He urged all the Germans to cease to talk of revenge on Germany's enemies and to get to work. He was loudly applauded when he concluded.

The most revolutionary step in the government's financial program as announced by Erzberger was a flat statement that it is necessary for the property classes to surrender their superflous riches..

A bill for the appropriation of large fortunes by the government was designed to carry out this part of the program.

The German national parley will propose in the resolution that before the National Assembly ratifies the peace treaty, it will make a reservation that it will not surrender the ex-kaiser for a trial before an international court.

President Opens His Heart In First Homecoming Speech

New York, July 9.—The full text of President Wilson's speech at Carnegie Hall late yesterday afternoon follows:

"Fellow Countrymen: I am not going to try this afternoon to make you a real speech. I am a bit alarmed to find how many speeches I have in my system undelivered, but they are all speeches that come from the mind and I want to say to you this afternoon only a few words from the heart.

"You have made me deeply happy by the generous welcome you have extended to me but I do not believe that the welcome you extend to me is half as great as that which I extend to you. Why, Jerseyman though I am, this is the first time I ever thought that Hoboken was beautiful.

"I have, really, though I have tried on the other side of the water to conceal it, been the most homesick man in the American Expeditionary Force, and it is with feelings that it would be vain for me to try to express that I find myself in this beloved country again. I do not say that because I lack in admiration of other countries.

"There have been many things that softened my homesickness. One of the chief things that softened it was the very generous welcome that they extended to me as your representative on the other side of the water. And it was still more softened by the pride that I had in discovering that America had at last convinced the world of her true character.

"I was welcome because they had seen with their own eyes what America had done for the world. They had deemed her selfish. They had deemed her devoted to material interests. And they saw her boys come across the water with a vision even more beautiful than that which they conceived when they had entertained dreams of liberty and peace.

"And then I had the added pride of finding out by personal observation the kind of men we had sent over. I had crossed the seas with the kind of men who had taken them over, without whom they could not have got to Europe, and then when I got there I saw that army of men, that army of clean men, that army of men devoted to the high interests of humanity, that army that one was glad to point out and say —'These are my fellow countrymen.'

"It softens the homesickness a good deal to have so much of home along with you, and these boys were constantly reminding me of home. They did not walk the streets like anybody else. I do not mean that they walked the streets self-assertively. They did not. They walked the streets as if they knew that they belonged wherever free men lived, that they were welcome in the great republic of France, and were comrades with the other armies that had helped to win the great battle and to show the great sacrifice. Because it is a wonderful thing for this nation, hitherto isolated from the large affairs of the world, to win not only the universal confidence of the people of the world, but their universal affections.

"And that, and nothing less than that, is what has happened. Wherever it was suggested that troops should be sent and it was desired that troops of occupation should excite no prejudice, no uneasiness on the part of those to whom they were sent, the men who represented the other nations came to me and asked me to send American soldiers. They not only implied, but they said, that the presence of American soldiers would be known not to mean anything except friendly protection and assistance. Do you wonder that it made our hearts swell with pride to realize these things?

"But while these things in some degree softened my homesickness, they made me all the more eager to get home, where the rest of the folks live; to get home where the great dynamo of national energy was situated, to get home where the great purposes of national action were formed and to be allowed to take part in the counsels and in the actions which were formed and to be taken by this great Nation which from first to last has followed the vision of the men who set it up and created it.

"We have had our eyes very close upon our tasks at times, but whenever we lifted them, as we were accustomed to lift them to a distant horizon, we were aware that all the people of the earth had turned their faces toward us as those who were the friends of freedom and of right, and whenever we thought of national policy and of its relation upon the affairs of the world, we knew we were under bonds to do the large thing and the right thing.

"It is a privilege, therefore, beyond all computation, for a man, whether in a great or small capacity, to take part in the counsels and in the resolutions of a people like this. I am afraid some people, some persons, do not understand that vision. They do not see it. They have looked too much upon the ground. They have thought too much of the interests that were near them, and they have not listened to the voices of their neighbors.

"I have never had a moment's doubt as to where the heart and purpose of this people lay. When any one on the other side of the water had raised the question, 'Will America come in and help?' I have said, 'Of course, America will come in and help.' She can not do anything else. She will not disappoint any high hope that has been formed of her. Least of all, will she, in this day of new born liberty all over the world, fail to extend her hand of support and assistance to those who have been made free.

"I wonder if at this distance you have got any conception of the tragic intensity of the feeling of those peoples in Europe who have just had yokes thrown off them. Have you reckoned up in your mind how many peoples, how many nations, were held unwillingly under the yoke of Austro-Hungarian empire, under the yoke of Turkey, under the yoke of Germany?

"These yokes have been thrown off These peoples breathe the air and look around to see a new day dawn about them, and whenever they think of what is going to fill that day with action they think first of us. They think first of the friends who throughout the long years have spoken for them, who were privileged to declare that they came into the war to release them, who said that they would not make peace upon any other terms than their liberty, and they have known that America's presence in the war and in the conference was the guarantee of the result.

The governor has spoken of a great task ended. Yes, the formulation of the peace is ended, but it creates only a new task just begun. I believe that if you will study the peace, you will see that it is a just peace and a peace which, if it can be preserved, will save the world from unnecessary bloodshed.

"And now the great task is to preserve it. I have come back with my heart full of enthusiasm for throwing everything that I can, by way of influence or action, in with you to see that the peace is preserved, that when the long reckoning comes, men may look back upon this generation of America and say, "They were true to the vision which they saw at their birth."

HOUSE TOOK RAP AT WOMEN.

Criticized for Their Galluses. They Urged Women to "Stretch" Dresses.

Jefferson City, July 9.—In the afternoon session of the house Monday that body took a pretty hard fall out of the suffragettes who came here last week to push the federal equal suffrage amendment through the legislature, and succeeded with great ease in doing so. In a Sunday story concerning the ratification of the federal suffrage amendment, a woman reporter for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat spoke of the members of the house who went about in their shirt sleeves, some of them wearing galluses and some of them none and in comparing them with the neatly dressed senators drew a comparison that roiled the membership of the house.

Representative Byrne of St. Joseph introduced a resolution in retort, which the house adopted by a vote of 86 to 1. The resolution, after reciting the woes of the house members and declaring that they wore clothes adapted to the weather and which were for the purpose of concealing and not revealing their bodies, etc., concluded with the following:

Whereas, certain women on said occasion wore a sort of gauze that covered only a part of their bodies and answered only as a camouflage, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the 50th general assembly in extraordinary session that we advise these reformers that charity and reform should begin at home and suggest to them to burn their corsets, knock the heels off their slippers and get a gauze stretcher and stretch their clothing so it will cover all of their bodies.

NEBRASKANS FORM NEW UNION.

Farmers Organization Plans to Sell 3 Million Dollars Worth of Stock.

From the Nebraska Journal.

Omaha—The Farmers' Union State Exchange, authorized to issue 3 million dollars worth of stock, was incorporated the other day at a meeting of several hundred farmers, members of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative State Union, controlled by members of the new organization.

The union represents about four thousand farmers and stock breeders of Nebraska and was organized five years ago as a co-operative exchange. The change of organization was made to widen the scope of the business. In place of paying dues as under the old form of organization, stock guaranteed to pay 8 per cent dividends annually has been issued. About $450,000 worth of stock was bought by the delegates to the meeting.

The headquarters of the union will be in Omaha. Its purpose is stated to be "to buy, sell and trade in seeds, groceries, shoes and implements, of all kinds." By a special motion the proposed bylaws were amended so as not to include grain and livestock.

Stock in the new company will be limited to members of the former union, with a restriction of forty shares to a member.

Hanus Says Tanlac Relieves His Rheumatism And He Now Feels Fine.

"Tanlac sure relieved me of my troubles and I gained fifteen pounds after I began taking it," said J. J. Hanus, a prominent resident of Ennis, Texas, living at 704 East Waco Street, that city.

"For years," he continued, "I had been going down hill and getting worse every day, in spite of all the medicines and treatments I took. Then I began to have terrible attacks of sciatic rheumatism, which kept me in bed for as long as five weeks at a time. I became very nervous and went to a well-known health resort, hoping to get relief, but that did me no good either.

"At last I was induced by what I had read and heard about Tanlac to give it a trial, and I am positively amazed at the change it has made in me. Why, I am entirely free of rheumatism and simply feel fine. All my troubles are gone and I am certainly delighted with the way Tanlac has fixed me up and am glad to recommend it to my friends."

"Tanlac is sold in Maryville by Koch Pharmacy, in Conception Junction by A. M. Colly, in Pickering by H. M. Lincoln, in Burlington Junction by Carter Pharmacy, in Barnard by Bear Drug Co., in Elmo by King Drug Co., in Clearmont by Dr. W. H. Wiley, in Ravenwood by C. A. Shunk, in Arkoe by Rufus R. Had Figured It Out.

At a recent meeting of the Lowell centenary in Cambridge, Professor William R. Thayer told this one:

"At the time Cornell University was founded, there was bitter rivarly between Ithaca and Ovid as to which would secure the college. Finally Ithaca won out and later, as a sop to Ovid's injured feelings, she was given an insane asylum.

"For a time every one was satisfied but at length the good people of Ovid began to wonder if, after all, they still did not have the worst of it.

"Finally, at a mass meeting one old gentlemen voiced the growing feeling in the community when he said:

"'I been figgering this thing out and I've decided that one college is as good as at least two insane asylums.'"

IF YOU DRIVE A HORSE YOU SHOULD READ THIS

A Few Hot Weather Rules Compiled for the Comfort of the Work Horse.

The following hot weather rules for the care and treatment of work horses during the summer have been prepared by the Boston Work Horse Relief Association. Aside from a humanitarian standpoint, their observance will have its reward in better work by the animals.

Load lightly and drive slowly.

Stop in the shade if possible.

Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, water in small quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still. Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his hay.

When he comes in after work, sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose and mouth and the dock. Wash his feet but not his legs.

If the thermometer is 75 degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a damp sponge, using vinegar water if possible. Do not wash the horse at night.

Saturday night, give a bran mash, lukewarm; and add a tablespoonful of saltpetre.

Do not use a horse hat, unless it is a canopy-top hat. The ordinary bell-shaped hat does more harm than good.

A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry it is worse than nothing.

If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him two ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre, in a pint of water; or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.

If the horse is off his feed, try him with two quarts of oats mixed with bran, and a little water; add a little salt or sugar. Or give oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.

Watch your horse. If he stops sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or if he stands with his legs braced sideways, he is in danger of a heat or sun stroke and needs attention at once.

If it is so hot that the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside with bedding under him. Unless he cools off during the night, he can not well stand the next day's heat.

Steel Grain Bins

Rat, Fire and Water Proof—Capacity 1000 Bushels of Wheat.

We have taken the sales agency of the Butler Steel Grain bin, and will be able to supply the demand if orders are placed soon.

These bins may be taken anywhere and filled direct from the spout of the separator. It eliminates all shoveling.

The heavy crop makes these bins very much in demand and we would advise ordering at once.
